About SECIII …

IFIP education has a tradition of organising exciting conferences which stimulate discussion, foster the exchange of ideas and knowledge, and generate more informed understanding of the issues of Informatics and ICT in education: SECIII will be no exception.

A range of conference activities are now in place. 26 papers have been selected for presentation in themed sessions. Two other types of sessions are planned – interactive sessions with short presentations to stimulate and even provoke discussion, and working groups which will explore a theme throughout the week. The programme has been designed to ensure that all participants are included in a range of activities and become members of active discussions.

Keynotes presentations will stimulate further thought.
• Obstacles of connecting social, ethical and cognitive issues of Informatics,
• European research into social consequences of ICT,
• Scientific challenges of e-learning,
• Paradigm shifts for Didactics of Informatics,
• Scientific foundations for a code of ethics for ICT-profession.

In addition two special days are interwoven across the programme. On Tuesday highlights of the German projects at university and secondary school level will be presented and discussed – projects that are exploring e-learning, distance education, the changing the role of the teacher. On Thursday is an additional theme of vocational education, and the business sector will be there to interact with educators and reflect on the impact of a new dual training partnership and integrated curriculum between schools and the industry.

These additional streams will run in parallel to and interface with the SECIII programme – and all day social interchange will facilitate the exchange of ideas and understandings. Some of these will be active classroom sessions for participants.

Full internet connectivity is available all week – though of course you will be too busy working in the real time access sessions to need this!

Because this is more than a working conference – interwoven will be formal and informal social events – from the opening reception on Sunday, market place and informal gathering on Monday, conference banquet on Tuesday, conference trip to Paderborn on Wednesday, to the concert and social gathering on Thursday. This is an event where meeting old friends, making new ones and networking across a range of experiences and cultures is fully incorporated into the planning.

You will have a chance to enjoy the local environment and culture within conference and beyond in Dortmund and the region. You can expect sunny clear days, with temperatures around 25-30. Usually no coats needed, even in the evening - this is high summer for Germany. Informality will rule - with only slightly more formal dress for the banquet.

Dortmund is based on a large open campus with easy transport links between university and downtown. The campus has an own metro station. Indeed there are direct rail links to the airport of Düsseldorf.

A visit of the SECIII conference can be combined with another great event – the famous exhibition

A visit of the SECIII conference can be combined with another great event – the famous exhibition in Kassel (June 8 – September 15, 2002) before or after the SECIII conference.

Documenta11

The documenta exhibitions

It was Arnold Bode, a painter and academy professor from Kassel, who in 1955 made the attempt to reestablish Germany as a partner of discourse to the rest of the world, and to reconnect it with international art by organizing a "Presentation of the Art of the 20th Century".

After founding the "Society of the Occidental Art of the XX Century", he managed, with the support of this society, to present classical modern art in the still destroyed Museum Fridericianum, the art which had been defamed as degenerated by the National Socialists, and to present it in such a way as it had never before been seen in Germany.

From June 8th until September 15th 2002 Documenta11 will take place in several exhibition spaces in Kassel. Projects and works of more than 100 international artists of every generation will be presented. The exhibition includes pieces of every type of media: sculpture and drawing, photography and architecture, film, video, sound- and internetworks, performance and concert.
